

HUNTER BELESS

Illustrated by Amy Grimes

I love you into outer space
Where astronauts explore.
I love you to the moon and back,
But Jesus loves you more.

Far across the big blue sea,
Down to the ocean floor.
My love is wide; my love is deep.
But Jesus loves you more.

*I love you to the moon and back,
but Jesus loves you more.*

In this beautiful board book, children are asked to imagine the biggest and farthest and deepest parts of creation—as high as eagles soar and as loud as lions roar. That’s how much we love them! But their hearts will also hear the more important message that Christ gave His life for them because He loves them even more!

Perfect for bedtime or anytime, the book’s whimsical art and rhyme create a reading experience that children (and parents) will treasure, taking them up to the clouds, into outer space, and down into the sea, but never away from Jesus’s love.

HUNTER BELESS loves helping people know and love God more, especially through His Word. She is the author of several children’s books and is most likely to be found reading with her four kiddos. Hunter’s favorite places to do ministry are within the four walls of her home and her local church. Connect with her at hunterbeless.com.
